Dear Parent/Guardian,

As you are already aware, the COVID-19 pandemic has caused significant disruption to student learning across the country. As things currently stand, the 2021 exams are expected to go ahead as normal, although likely to be delayed by a few weeks. At the moment, the content of the exams remains unchanged.

Before the summer break begins, I wanted to take the opportunity to explain how we have supported Psychology students in this challenging time. All lesson materials have been sent out on a weekly basis via email and these materials have been filed within Microsoft teams' folders where students can access and store their completed work. Access to Microsoft Teams and details of work set each week will remain accessible for students over the summer to facilitate filing in any gaps that some students may have in completion of tasks set.

In addition to support via email, students have been able to contact teachers via 'private channels' in MS teams allowing them to ask questions and seek support. If your son / daughter requires support with the completion of work over the summer break, please encourage them to email myself.

If you would like to purchase any revision resources to support your child's psychology preparation, please click the link for books I recommend

This has been a challenging time for all. Please contact me if you feel you would like to discuss any way we can collectively support you son / daughter during the upcoming year.

Yours faithfully,

Mr Mosdell
